

Earth Aligns with our Galactic Center at 27 degrees of Sagittarius...

Sagittarius 27 is the tactile sensation of being in the guided state.

This is not seeking guidance, asking for guidance. There's no mind-separation, no trying to understand. There's no activity of the mind. Perhaps under it all could be a sense of alignment or awareness that you are connected to a stream of wisdom that has no basis in any time-sense.

Tuning in to Sag 27 is like making yourself a target. From there emanates a beam of what-has-always-mattered. You put a red dot on your 6th chakra and walk into the line of fire, surrendering yourself to getting hit by the focused choir of arch-angel voices. You will never be the same.

As our Solar System lines up with this energy, we are being asked to surrender to the arch-angelic firing squad intent upon killing all the falsehood. This 20th century fear-and-suffering, everyone-alone mentality does not want to die. What has never mattered is that we have the mental power to separate ourselves from the angels, from each other. What has never mattered is that we have the mental power to create negative images of death.

The tensions sweeping our species are the last-ditch efforts by the dark force of limiting beliefs.

In each of us it hits, Sag 27 is an arch-angel laser beam burning off the fog. Somewhere in the background you remember the elaborate mental constructs which were everything but this, which have never mattered. This is flow. This has always been there. Whatever else were you thinking?

You will never be the same.
